CRUEL SCIATICA.

Incessant Pain — Tormented — Racked — Life Despaired of.

John Marshall, Varney, P.O. Co. of Grey, writes these strong words: for two years I was completely laid up with sciatica. I doctored without any permanent relief. I had given up hope. A friend saw the notice of a cure of what seemed a parallel case to mine, by South American Rheumatic Cure, and knowing my little faith in the efficacy of any remedy, he procured a bottle himself and brought it to me. I took it, and, o make a long story short it saved my life. In a day or so I was out of bed, and in three days I was able to walk to Durham, a distance of four miles, to purchase another bottle. I am now entirely cured." Said by A. W. Grange & Bro.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY.

SELBY.

Farmers all complain of the late spring,
some of them are just starting seeding.

Miss Laura Dean was visiting at Mr. John Hudgins on Sunday, Thos. Winters was also a guest.

Miss Gertie Miller was visiting at Mr.
Anson Rose's on Sunday.

The Concert Club has decided to give its concert Saturday night, May 22nd it will be for the benefit of the Indian Famine Relief fund, this is a good object, and as the boys are well and favorably known there will no doubt be a good attendance.

Miss Ida Dafee has returned to Watertown
for the summer.

The Wonder of the Age. DEAR SIR,
—I must honestly say that I have tried your valuable medicine B. B. B. for the disease called prairie itch, and have found this remedy to be the wonder of the age. I took only three bottles and to my great satisfaction was completely cured, I can highly recommend it to all who suffer from any skin disease or impurity of the blood.

HAROLD DIX,
Ret Portage, Ont.

BELL ROCK.

Farmers have just commenced sowing as the spring has not been as favorable as they
at first anticipated.

Fred Carr's house was burned but most of the contents were saved.

The cheese factory is running full blast
with Will Stewart of Toledo, Ont. as maker and his brother Claude as assistant.

here in the place of his brother Will till the summer holidays.

The Rathbun Co's drive of logs are at first lake and one of their gangs of men will camp here this week.

A commercial traveller coming into our work shop the other day and seeing the number of customers' watches we had on hand said that we did as much repairing business as the other two shops together.
F. Chinnack personally oversees the repair department and guarantees satisfaction.

horse from Thomas Huffman. Its a dandy.

Prayer meetings are held in the Union Church every Thursday evening. Come early and secure a seat.

Perry Brown travels west every morning bound for Bartlett's factory, while at the same time Almon Williams also travels east for the same purpose. Milk drawing seems to be a nice thing for young men as their darling's residence lies between the starting places and the factories.

Wm. Hamby of Bethany, spent Sunday last at J. T. Parks, Esq., of this place.

Fred Sherman left last week for British Columbia. Dr. Ward of Napawee, purchased his farm.

DENBIGH.

The weather has been rather wet and cold lately and the spring seeding has been rather retarded thereby. Our farmers intend to sow a larger amount of spring grain than usual and to plant a great deal more ensilage corn than heretofore.

The Denbigh cheese factory started operations on the third inst. Jas. Duncan has been engaged as cheesemaker for this season.

KINGSFORD.

Seeing that the old correspondent has taken a rest I will endeavor to send you a few items to let you know Kingsford is a place of importance. It contains many great buildings, viz: general store and post office owned by J. B. Gordon, a saw mill owned by T. A. Gordon, two blacksmith shops owned by Peter Doyle and James McHenry, a church and half a dozen houses. Friday was Arbor Day. The teacher and pupils deserve praise for the good work which was taken in cleaning up their school yard.

Misses Maudy and Mayseel Gordon, of Lonsdale, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon.

W. J. Matchell and wife, of Kennebec, spent Friday in this vicinity.

On Friday Mrs. Abbott had a stroke, on the following day seemed no better and on Sunday passed peacefully away to realms of delight where pain cannot annoy. The funeral took place on Tuesday and was largely attended.

Mr. Geo. Demorest departed this life on Tuesday last. His remains were put in the vault on Wednesday.

NEWBURGH.

Mr. Editor, the sun is just coming over the hill tops. What do I behold written on its face? The events of another week which I must make known.

THE American nation wants peace, but the Senate favors war.

THE tory party will soon have to adjourn for want of a quorum!—Globe.

THE Toronto World naively asks—"Is there anything left for Liberals to take?"

YOUR modern Greek, like our Canadian M. P., may be able to hold a railway pass.

MR. WILSON says that "free corn strikes my riding." He neglected to take "in the right spot."

THE Dingley bill does not benefit the American, but it injures the Canadian farmer. The Canadian farmer can stand it, however.

THE Ex-president of the Red Parlor thinks the new tariff has gone to a most dangerous length in the direction of free trade. The manufacturers didn't prepare the brief this time.

THE red rose was much in evidence in the House of Commons on the evening of May 11th. Mr. Tarte presented a flower to all the members of the Liberal side and to the Liberal members of the press gallery.

PARLIAMENT will be requested to enact that the age for the protection of girls and women be raised to 21 years. The suggestion comes from the Methodists of Amherstburg and will in all probability be acted upon.

After carefully perusing the member for Lennox's speech on the budget debate we have arrived at the conclusion that if the government would impose the duty of 7½ a bushel on corn Mr. Wilson would be content to "make it unanimous." While Mr. Wilson went out of his way to pay his tribute to the departed greatness of the N. P. he also had a measure of praise for the policy of the Reform Government. In a word Mr. Wilson praised the policy but censured the Government for the alleged non-fulfillment of their promises. The member for Lennox quoted numerous extracts from the campaign speeches of Reformers where they had put themselves on record as favoring a free trade policy for Canada. He contended that the Government had broken faith with the people and gone back on their promises in not inaugurating a free trade policy. In support of this he quoted the following from a speech delivered by Mr. Laurier at Newmarket in 1893:

I will not be satisfied until the last vestige of protection has been removed from the soil of Canada. This is the aim toward which we are progressing, the aim which we have in view, and we will not rest until we have achieved that object. When that will be, I do not profess to know, but, at all events, I say that the Reformers of Canada have reforms to carry out, but that our great reform is to put away from the soil of Canada the last vestige of protection.

We believe that this is the aim of the Reform party. It is retarded by the maladministration and the legacy of debt and obligations left behind by the late government, but, as Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out, the ship's head is now pointed towards the open sea, the new tariff has rung the death knell of protection and rung in the chance of federating the empire on a solid and secure basis.

The goal toward which the Liberals are travelling is that of free trade. They have broken no promises nor do we believe they will. The platform adopted by the National Liberal Convention at Ottawa in June 1893 has been honestly adhered to. The new tariff, if studied carefully, is substantially a revenue tariff. The protective features of the N. P. tariff have been in many cases eliminated and the pernicious specific duties abolished. So long as a revenue is raised by duties the duties cannot help but prove to some extent protective. We are pleased to see that Mr. Wilson favors the preferential clause and is willing to give every reasonable preference to the mother country. He doesn't believe it should apply to the United States, however. Of course Mr. Wilson is entitled to his own opinion, but apart from sentiment it cannot but be admitted that ingress to the markets of the United States would be of immense advantage to the farmers of Canada and especially so to the farmers of the Bay of Quinte district.

It was not to be expected that a member of the opposition would practically endorse the Government's policy. Although it may meet with his approval it is customary to single out some particular feature for condemnation. Mr. Wilson was singularly unfortunate in his choice when he selected "free corn" as a target on which to score the Government. There is perhaps no item in the new tariff which meets with more approval among the farmers of his constituency. Mr. Wilson's plea that it will reduce the price of coarse grain is not well taken and shows at once that his knowledge of the needs of the farmer is limited. Intelligent and wide awake agriculturalists do not, as a rule, grow coarse grain for sale, having long ago recognized that it is in keeping and feeding it on the farm that the profit lies. Corn will not be imported into Canada unless the farmer finds it to his interest: so to do, and the plea that it should be restricted by a heavy duty is on a par with the N. P. which was framed on the assumption that...

ACQUITTED.

THE END OF THE TYNER MAN-SLAUGHTER CASE.

QUEEN VS. WILLIAMS.—Everett Williams who was charged with unlawfully slaying Frank Tyner, of the township of Sheffield on or about the 20th day of December pleaded not guilty. Mr. Riddell, crown prosecutor said this case was what was commonly called manslaughter. He explained the difference between manslaughter and murder. "Anyone guilty of causing the death of another by negligence, although not intending to kill, was guilty of manslaughter. The facts of the case as explained by Mr. Riddell are as follows:

A young boy named Frank Tyner, a waif and stray was adopted by John Tyner, of Sheffield. Everett Williams on Xmas, 1895, made up his mind to have some fun with the boy. He purchased a bottle of whiskey in Tamworth and told a young boy in his employ to put a drug, which he called jalap, in the whiskey and give it to Tyner. The boy did as his employer directed him, Tyner drank the decoction and never was a well boy again. Tyner was poisoned by the overdose and despite medical aid died from the effects. It turned out that the drug administered was condition powders and contained antimony, which was fattening to animals but caused death to human beings. It was shown that Tyner's kidneys were diseased but it was admitted by the medical men that the drug hastened the boy's death. At the coroner's inquest held shortly after the death of Tyner, Coughlin, who administered the drug, was spirited away, and Williams went before the inquest and swore he did not know where the boy was, and that he did not know of any whiskey or drug being administered to Tyner. The crown prosecutor explained Coughlin's movements, and asked the jury to find in accordance with the evidence.

James Coughlin on being sworn said he was 14 years of age and lived with Everett Williams. He was at Williams on the Xmas of 1895. He was also at John Tyner's and knew Frank Tyner, but he was no relative of Tyner and didn't know what his right name was. He had some talk with Williams about Frank Tyner the day before Xmas. He was telling me what fun we could have with Frank Tyner. We could give him some jalap and it would physic him. Williams said he would give it to me to give Frank Tyner. It was to be done Xmas night. Williams hadn't the whiskey then but said he would buy it at Dowling's hotel on his way down to Tyner's. Williams got the jalap on Xmas eve and showed it to me. It was in a small paper. He bought the jalap at Mr. Rose's, a druggist in Tamworth. On Xmas morning Williams said he was going to church in Tamworth and when I got through with the chores I was to bring along the jalap and take it to Tyner's. I went to Tamworth after doing my chores and met Williams in Dowling's hotel there, after he had come from church. I went with him to the hotel shed and he gave me a pint bottle of whiskey and told me to take it to Tyner's, and put the jalap into it, and put it somewhere where Frank Tyner could get hold of it. The reason Williams gave for giving the jalap to Tyner was that he was always coaxing him for whiskey. Tyner was a little given to drink. I went to John Tyner's about 2 p.m. They were having a party there. Williams was there. Frank Tyner was at the party. Before Frank got the whiskey, I had put the jalap in the whiskey. Williams told me to put the jalap in him.

THE elections in Quebec on May 11th were simply an eye-opener. Mr. Flynn went to the electors with a majority of 20, and has been left in a minority of 36! The questions before the people were—financial reform—educational improvements—the Manitoba school settlement—and the freedom of the elector to vote grit or tory—just as he liked—without clerical interference.
Mr. Flynn was himself defeated in Gaspé, which he has represented for 20 years, his last majority being no less than 702. A young journalist of Montreal, Mr. Charles Marcell undertook to run against Flynn and by last reports is elected by a majority of 6.
The whole Dominion is apparently sick of Toryism.

TRUE TO THE LAST.

The History of Five Years and Its Happy Outcome.

"Five years ago I was very sick, and have remained in a feeble condition ever since. During the time I had one hemorrhage of the stomach, which left me in the poorest health possible. My heart and nerves were weak, consequently I suffered from extreme nervousness, violent fluttering of the heart, weak sinking feeling, shortness of breath, numbness of the hands, etc.

A short time ago I was advised to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and went to John A. Barr's drug store to get a box.
On obtaining them I started their use, and derived so much benefit that I continued using them. I have now taken a little over three boxes, and am pleased to say they have improved my general health, strengthened the entire nervous system, and removed my heart troubles. I do not now have the fluttering of the heart, weak, sinking feeling or shortness of breath. They have restored healthy circulation of the blood and removed the numbness in my hands. I am far better than I have been since I first took sick, and it is with pleasure I recommend the use of these pills to anyone suffering as I did with heart or nerve troubles. (Signed)

neys, Washington, D. C., for their $1.800 prize offer the N. F. which was framed on the assumption that people didn't understand their own business. Free corn will place our farmers on an even footing with cattle raisers of the United States and will do much to stimulate the stock feeding industry here, as in a dry or off season farmers will not be apprehensive about securing supplies, as heretofore. Last year the farmers of our back townships, particularly Denbigh, were forced to let their cattle die for lack of feed owing to the ravages of the grasshoppers. Free corn would have proved a boon to those townships last winter and would not have affected the price of coarse grains a particle.

In conclusion we might add that the new tariff is particularly a farmer's tariff, it reduces the duty on everything he needs, protects him from trusts and combines, discriminates in favor of Great Britain, reduces the duty on axes, sythes, forks, spades, places binder twine and barbed wire
on the free list, and practically reduces coal oil three cents a gallon. The more it is studied the better it will commend itself to the farmers.

Williams told me to put the jalap in the whiskey and hide it where Frank Tyner and Samuel Kirke would get it. The jalap and whiskey was then in my pocket. I put the drug in the whiskey about 9 o'clock at night. The bottle was not full of whiskey when I put the jalap in it. Some of the boys had had a sup out of it, and it was down within a few inches of the bottom before I put the drug in it. I put the drug in the bottle in the presence of Sam Kirke. We then called in Frank Tyner. I took a small swallow of it, handed it to Kirke who didn't take any, and he handed it to Tyner who drank all that was left. Tyner said it tasted bitter. Kirke and I went to the house and and Tyner took a horse to water. I told Williams previous to putting the jalap in the drug that my father would not let me go out of the house. Williams told me to wait until my father got up in the dance and then to go out. I did so. I saw Tyner about an hour after he took the drink. He was sitting down on a couch beside the stove. When I came up from the barn I told Williams what I did. He laughed a little bit. I heard on New Years that Frank had been taken sick. Mrs.
Tyner came over to our house to see what I had given him. I told her it was condition powders. Williams told me not to let on anything about it and I told Mrs. Tyner
the first thing that came into my head.
Everett Williams sent me into the back country with a horse and cutter. He sent Jimmie Younge with me. I went to Ardoch, forty or fifty miles back. I can't remember what Williams told me. When I went back Frank Tyner was not expected to live. I went back to Ardoch because Jane Kirke told me at Williams' "if they didn't get me there would be nothing about it." Williams was in the room and heard what was said. Williams then sent after the horse and cutter and sent me away with Jimmie Younge. I was to stay away, Williams told me, until the trouble was over. I never denied to Williams that I gave Tyner the drug. I don't remember whether Tyner was dead or not when I left. I went to Mr. Smith's at Ardoch. Williams knew I was going to Smith's. I stopped there over a month, when a man came after me. The horse and cutter which took me to Ardoch was brought back by Jimmie Younge. Tom Kellar came after me, but I was at Mr.
Smith's daughter's and he didn't get me.
Jimmie Younges and Tom Kellar brought me back eventually with Williams' rig.
They brought me to my father's house and kept me safe until the high court. I was brought up at the last court and tried for manslaughter and acquitted. His Lordship, Chief Justice Armour, then directed that Williams be arrested for the offence.
Part of the time I was in Prince Edward county under the care of my father. I think the drug was wrapped in two papers.

To Mr. Deroche—Williams first spoke to me about the matter the day before Xmas.
Had heard of a similar joke being played on Cavanah but did not suggest it to Williams. I and Sam Kirke thought it would be a good joke to play this trick on Frank Tyner. I have told that I got the whiskey at Sam Shields for ten cents. I told Tom Murphy that it was seven-year old rye, no common rot gut.

When Williams got the drug at Rose's the druggist told him that what would go on a five cent piece was a dose.

He didn't remember that Williams' child was sick at the time of the party. The child had been sick some time before that.

Williams was the prompter of the joke throughout.

To Mr. Riddell—I threw the papers on the barn floor and did not see them afterwards.

Samuel Kirke on being sworn said he was fourteen years of age and was related to Williams by marriage. He was at John Tyner's on Xmas night and saw the drug administered to Frank Tyner by Caughlin. He saw Caughlin put the drug in the bottle and give it to Tyner, who drank it. Tyner, after he had drank it, said it tasted bitter. Tyner asked Caughlin what he had put in it and he replied
"nothing." Tyner went to the house after he got the drug. I saw him afterwards and he complained of being sick.

After Caughlin got through with the papers in which the drug was wrapped he threw them down on the barn floor. The drug was of a brown color and was given to Tyner to physic him. I told Williams after the drug had been administered that Tyner was sick.

To Mr. Deroche—I saw Caughlin put the drug in the whiskey, but he didn't say where he got the jalap. Tyner was fond of whiskey.

JUPITER, GIANT OF PLANETS.

How It Compares With the Tiny Globe
Inhabited by the Human Race.

In point of brilliancy Jupiter has only one competitor and superior among the starry hosts and that is Venus. It reached its points of opposition to the sun February 23, and now rises in the early evening, and will continue to be an evening star until the middle of August. On September 12 it will reach its point of superior conjunction. At that date it will be 575,000,000 miles from us. Its present distance is about 400,000,000 miles.

Jupiter requires about twelve years to make its journey around the sun. Therefore, if an old acquaintance of 72 here on earth had lived in Jupiter he would be a youth of 6 summers. It is a law governing the planets in their annual journey that the longer the journey the more deliberate their gait. Thus Mercury has the shortest journey, but it is a rustler, averaging about twenty-five miles a second. Our earth, with a longer trip, slackens her speed to about nineteen miles a second. Jupiter, with his long voyage before him, takes a gait of eight miles a second; Neptune, with an annual journey of more than 8,000,000,000 miles before him, as if realizing the necessity of husbanding his strength, gets down to a gait of three and a half miles a second.

Very appropriately Jupiter is known as the giant planet. It is larger than all the other planets combined. Its equatorial diameter is a little more than 88,000 miles. It is far more flattened at the poles than our earth. The equatorial and polar diameter of the latter varies only twenty-six miles, while the variation of Jupiter is 5000 miles. As its diameter is eleven times that of our earth its relative size is found by cubing eleven times, which gives up 1331.

While Jupiter is so sluggish and so much slower than the earth in its motion on its yearly journey, yet in a contest of speed in daily motion on its axis it makes the earth hide its head. It makes a complete rotation in ten hours. A point on its equator will travel a mile while a point on our equator will go about eighty yards. If a point on our equator should move with such thirty minutes from sunrise to sunset. But there would be no one on the region of our equator to see the sun rise or set. Everything moveable in that region would be hurled off into space by centrifugal force.

Although in size Jupiter is 400 times larger, yet in relative density it is only one-fourth that of our earth. In volume it would make 1400 earths; but to make them as dense as our earth we should have a little more than 300. This lack of density on the part of Jupiter is what we might expect from the nebular hypothesis. As a rule the density of planets increases as their distance from the sun decreases. Jupiter is so much less than that of the sun

Bishop B. W. Arnett.

SWAYS AUDIENCES WITH HIS MASTERLY ELOQUENCE.

He Writes a Letter of More Than Usual Interest to Suffering Humanity.

At Wilberforce, Ohio, three miles north of Xenia and near Dayton and Springfield, is located Wilberforce University and Payne Theological Seminary.

These two institutions of learning have educated many ministers and teachers.

In this somewhat noted educational centre, resides Bishop Benjamin W. Arnett, D. D., a divine who is of especial prominence because of his thrilling eloquence with which he has swayed many audiences.

Among the high officials of the church, no one is more distinguished than he.

BISHOP B. W. ARNETT.

Before being elected bishop he was a leading minister in his church and also a very prominent Republican. He represented his county in the Ohio Legislature for several years.

Having given this sketch of the bishop, the following testimonial from him will be found very interesting reading and fully explains itself. To whom it may concern:

"In April, 1894, while on my way home from Philadelphia I caught a very severe cold, which soon developed into rheumatism. It was impossible for me to rest by day or sleep by night. About the first of June I was compelled to take to my bed, where I remained for some time. When I was able to get up, I could only get about by the use of crutches.

The fall came on and the rheumatism grew worse, leading to the neighborhood of Tyner's place. He was at Tyner's party on Xmas night. I didn't see Frank Tyner take the drink but saw him on the barn floor trying to vomit. the day after Xmas. He never was the same boy afterwards until he died. Every witness received in the behalf as follows: I am the accused, know the things and found two papers and a bottle. There was no liquor in the bottle but there was something in the bottle which he thought was condition powders. The papers found contained the same stuff as was in the bottle. The color was brown, and thought from the color they were condition powders. Frank Tyner took the stuff and showed it to several in the house. There was about a table-spoonful of it left in the paper. After this Tyner vomited again.

John Morrison testified that he saw the papers in the possession of Frank Tyner but doesn't remember whether there was any powder in it. He came to the conclusion from the smell that the papers had contained condition powders.

Mrs. Eleonora Tyner swore she was the wife of John Tyner, and it was at her house the boy, Frank Tyner lived. He was a gypsy and got the name Tyner from having lived at their place. His name was Frank Golden. On the Xmas night Frank took ill. He was not very sick the next morning. After that Xmas night he didn't look as well but did not complain much. He grew gradually worse until it was found necessary to call in Dr. Clark. Frank died some time in January. He was not a strong boy. The boy had told her that his stomach had never felt right since he took the dose. His appetite failed him and he had a bad taste in his mouth after he took the dose. He grew weaker and weaker until he died.

To Mr. Deroche—Coughlin told me it was a little parcel Everett Williams gave him he had given to Tyner. He said it was condition powders or whatever Williams was feeding his horses. Tyner was about 20 years of age and had lived with them 14 years.

Dr. Clarke on being sworn said: I am a medical man practicing in Tamworth and attended the late Frank Tyner. I was consulted on the 9th of Jan. and saw him on the 10th. He was in a state of collapse and died within a few hours after I saw him. I made up my mind then but it was largely from the history of the case. His death was largely due from some irritant matter taken into the stomach and bowels.

Antimony and jalap are such an irritant. Antimony is never used for human purposes but is used for veterinary purposes. Jalap is used in small doses in human practices. An overdose of jalap would bring on inflammation. When I saw him he was almost pulseless, his color was bad and his perspiration was labored and slow. I knew he was going to die and the boy gave me the impression that he knew he was going to die. The boy said before he died that he hoped Everett Williams would suffer as much before he died as he did, as it was him who had given him the condition powders. The boy was suffering great pain over the stomach. He was not of the brightest intellectually. He assisted at the post mortem with Dr. Wilson. The autopsy was then read, which showed that the deceased had a chronic disease of the kidney. The death was accelerated by some irritant taken into the stomach.

To Mr. Deroche.—Something might have been done for the boy had he been called in at an earlier stage. Williams' child was ill in the fall of 1895 and I attended the child. Dr. Wilson, of Tamworth, was called and took part with Dr. Clarke in the post mortem on the body of Frank Tyner. He substantiated Dr. Clarke's evidence.

To Mr. Deroche.—The doctor said he attended Williams' little girl in the fall of 1895, and treated her for dysentery. Dr. Northmore, of Bath, saw the post mortem and agreed with Drs. Clarke and Wilson as to the cause of death. The irritant administered was the immediate cause of death.

Daniel P. Rose testified that he was a druggist in Tamworth. He sold condition powders and they contained 16 per cent of antimony. They also contained sulphite of iron, 12 1/2 per cent. Don't remember having sold jalap to Williams.

Mr. Riddell tendered the evidence given by Williams at the coroner's inquest. Williams having been cautioned that any evidence he might give might be used against him in any subsequent trial. The judge refused to receive the evidence. This closed the case for the crown. The case for the defence was opened by John Tyner who testified that Frank Tyner lived with him. He remembered the night of the party. Frank worked the next day and for four or five days afterwards, he didn't seem as well as usual but did not complain to him of being ill. He complained of being ill the day before New Year's.

To Mr. Riddell.—Knew the boy was sick

the winter of 1895, Coughlin suggested to me that it would be a great joke to take some jalap up to Tyner's and give Frank Tyner a dose similar to what the boys at Elmville had given a boy named Cavanah. I never said much about it. My child was quite sick and it was found necessary to give her a purgative and as she could not take oil my wife and mother suggested that I get some jalap for the child. Xmas eve I bought some jalap at Rose's drug store. I left it in my coat and told my wife when I got home that she would find it there. She gave some of it to the child on Xmas morning. We left for Tamworth in the morning and Coughlin was to follow after he had done the chores. The prisoner wore that he did not give Coughlin any jalap. He might have given him some whiskey but if so he didn't remember about it. Williams said the way the boy happened to go to Ardooch was because the people had got around his wife that Coughlin had told such stories that if they didn't send the boy he would make a widow woman of her. He was opposed to the boy going away.

To Mr. Riddell.—He was 38 years of age and knew the nature of an oath. He gave evidence before the coroner's inquest. The crown prosecutor read the evidence given by Williams at the inquest. It contradicted the story told by Williams in some essential particulars.

Mary Ann Coughlin was at Tyner's on the night of the party and saw her step son James Coughlin then. She testified that Williams had told Coughlin to go out and see to the horses. Her evidence did not throw any new light on the subject.

Mrs. Everett Williams an intelligent and pretty woman testified she was the wife of the prisoner. Remembered the little girl being ill and in consequence her husband got some jalap for the child. Gave the child a dose of it Xmas morning. She and her husband and Coughlin went to the party at Tyner's on Xmas and heard her husband tell the boy to go out and attend the horses. Mrs. Williams related the circumstances attending the sending of Coughlin to Ardooch. Her husband had nothing to do with sending the boy to Ardooch.

Mr. Deroche made an eloquent plea for the acquittal of his client.

Mr. Riddell followed in an able address and his honor charged the jury to find in accordance with the evidence. The jury brought in a verdict not guilty.

The judge in discharging the prisoner gave an impressive warning against playing practical jokes.

SHOW THEM UP TO THE PUBLIC

As the public—particularly the ladies—are so often swindled by profit-loving merchants and dealers, it is well that people should have an example of what is done in the sale of certain package dyes for home dyeing.

The makers of common and adulterated package dyes sell their crude colors to the retail merchants at a cost of four cents per packet, and the public who buy these deception dyes are made to pay ten cents for them. A handsome profit indeed for Mr. Storekeeper! No wonder he uses every endeavor to sell and substitute his poor dyes for the famous and reliable Diamond Dyes.

The Diamond Dyes, that all live and honorable dealers in Canada handle and sell, cost a good deal more money, yet the public get them for ten cents, which only allows the dealer a fair profit.

But mark the difference, ladies! The cheap dyes are really worthless, and are made for the profit of the manufacturer and the dealer, while Diamond Dyes are made for the profit, pleasure and blessing of every home dyer.

yet because of its greater mass the attractive force for bodies on its surface is far greater than on our earth. Thus, if a girl of 16 should weigh 100 pounds here, if transferred to Jupiter she would draw the scales at 260 pounds. Unless we were differently constituted dancing on Jupiter would prove a wearisome sport.

It may interest some young readers to know how we ascertain the comparative weight of a body on the surface of Jupiter. Gravity, or weight, is inversely as the square of the distance. The distance in such a calculation is the distance from the surface of Jupiter to the center of the planet. The mass of Jupiter is 316 times that of the earth. From this point alone a body would weigh 316 times as much on the surface of Jupiter as on the earth. But the matter of distance changes this very materially. From surface to center Jupiter is eleven times greater than our earth. The square of this gives us 121. Here, you see, the earth has the decided advantage. If distance alone be considered, an object on our earth would weigh 121 times more than on Jupiter. We obtain the relative surface gravity by dividing, which gives us about two and two-thirds in favor of Jupiter.—Chicago Chronicle.

Walking the Best Exercise.

Although English girls ride, drive, "go in" for tennis and even cricket, they with one accord acknowledge that they owe more to their long tramps across country than to all else combined. There are but two requisites to make a two-mile tramp, even for a novice, the most desirable, healthful exercise in the world; comfortable, low-heeled shoes and a short skirt. Surely these two essentials are possible for every girl in either the city or country. If so, then every girl who does not promptly brighten up her complexion and strengthen her muscles, even if it involves the sacrifice of a half-hour's morning sleep, has only herself to blame.

One young woman who has both horses and bicycle at her command, but who suffered constantly from insomnia, was ordered by her physician to walk at least one mile every day. So loath was she to begin what she considered "such an undertaking" that her fond parents finally bribed her by offering the financial consideration of 50 cents a mile. After six months of daily tramps, the pedestrian ceased taking the bribe and had begun to feel that the walk was, on the contrary, worth paying for, so great was the benefit received.

For girls who have plenty of leisure it is a most charming pastime to get up pedestrian parties and visit places of interest during the summer, tramping for half a day, then resting and recuperating for the morrow. This method of spending a vacation possesses the double merit of improving the health and leaving the pocketbook in robust condition.—Philadelphia Record.

Remarkable Snake Story.

The latest snake story comes from South Africa. It is recorded in The Transvaal, published in Cape Town, as cold fact, but in Sekukinland a native ran across a boa constrictor measuring about 47 feet, which had just swallowed a young koodoo buck all except the horns, says The London Times. The horns stuck out on each side of the reptile's mouth. The native recognized the horns as those of a buck he owned, and he ran and got sticks and pinned the serpent, which was dormant to the ground. Then he got hold of the horns and pulled and twisted. He got the buck out inch by inch until half his body showed, and then it came with a jerk, and the boy fell over on his back. Before he had time to think, the snake, relieved of its load of mutton, was upon him, and it seized his head in its mouth and in three minutes the native had taken the place of the buck. Only he was all inside; there was nothing left to pull out even if a rescuer had come along. Having swallowed the boy, the boa deliberately swung its head around and grabbing its tail, swallowed eight feet of it, then closing the mouth and throat down which the native had disappeared, and making escape absolutely possible, The Transvaal vouches for the truth of the story.

"She said no more, but went to Xenia, Ohio, and bought a box of the pills. On her return she gave me a dose at noon and another at night. She was only called one time to attend to me during the night."

"For months previous she had been called three or four times during the night. The next day I took three doses of the pills, and the second night I was not disturbed. My wife, for the first time in more than ten months, had a good night's sleep."

"I have not lost a night's sleep since that time on account of the rheumatism. I carry a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my pocket wherever I go."

James Was Reading.
"James, dear, will you bring me up a scuttle of coal from the cellar?" said a busy wife.
"That's just the way with you," said James, with a frown, as he put down his book and rose from the arm chair.

"Just the way with me?"
"Yes," he snapped. "As soon as you see me enjoying myself, you have something or other for me to do. Didn't you see I was absorbed in my reading?"

"Well, dear, I will do it myself."
"Yes, and tell everybody—your mother especially—that you have to carry your own coal up from the cellar. No. I'll do it. Let me mark my place."

So he marked the place in the book at which he had ceased reading, and when he went down the cellar grumbling all the way, she picked up the volume and found it was a love story and that the passage he had been absorbed in was as follows:

"My darling, when you are my wife, I will shield and protect you from every care. The winds of heaven shall not visit your face too roughly; those pretty hands shall never be soiled by menial tasks; your wish shall be my law; your happiness—"

Just then he appeared and dropping the scuttle upon the floor said:

TROY'S EXTRAORDINARY CONFESSION.

TWO OF TROY'S CHUMS IMPLICATED!!

Hughes and Penn Equally Guilty—Troy's Remarkable Story—The Horrors of Isolation—A Verdict of Guilty—The Judge will make a Special Report to the Minister of Justice.

A case unique in the annals of crime terminated here on Tuesday by the conviction of John F. Troy, on his own evidence, of the murder of Angus McLeod on the morning of the 12th of September, 1893.

On Monday forenoon the grand jury brought in a true bill for murder against Troy and on Tuesday morning he was brought from the Kingston penitentiary, where he was undergoing a twenty years imprisonment for attempted murder, and arraigned for the murder of Angus McLeod.

The prisoner on being arraigned said he desired to plead guilty, but this his lordship, under the circumstances, would not consent to. In answer to the judge the prisoner said he was friendless and had no one to defend him. He wanted to make an explanation of some statements he had made. He had desired to plead guilty.

The judge selected W. H. Perry, of Napanee, to defend Troy, and he consented.

The charge was then read that John F. Troy murdered Angus McLeod, on the 12th of September, 1893, and his counsel entered a plea of not guilty. Twenty-five petit jurors were then called and of that number the following good men and true were chosen to well and truly try the prisoner and give a verdict in accordance

Mr. Riddell read the confession as follows:
TROY'S CONFESSION TO ROGERS.

I, John F. Troy make the following statement voluntarily to Inspector J. E. Rogers at the Kingston penitentiary, this 11th day of Feb. 1897, in the presence of W. J. McLeod, secretary and John Hughes, a prisoner who is undergoing sentence, and was brought in at the request of John F. Troy.

Some days previous to the murder of Angus McLeod, at Napanee, on the 13th Sept., 1893, we were in Port Hope, Hughes, Penn and myself. Penn and I met Hughes in Port Hope. We were drinking considerable there. Penn and myself intended going east. Hughes was going west. I met Hughes in a barn east of depot. Hughes gave me about $7 in silver. I knew Hughes before this time. We all met in the barn that night. Next morning I went up town. I met them afterwards. I bought some groceries and some whiskey and took them to the grove. We cooked a meal. I induced the two boys who were with Hughes to go home. I gave them some money to go with. Hughes, Penn and myself and several citizens remained at the grove drinking all day. About dark we had a quarrel with Port Hope parties. I struck one over the head with a revolver and fired a shot at him as he was going away. Hughes, Penn and myself then went to Cobourg. Penn and I had revolvers. Hughes had none. Chief Rankin came down and searched us, our revolvers were hidden at the time. Rankin told us to get away from Cobourg. Hughes jumped on a train. Penn and I stayed behind to get the revolvers. We went to Trenton and met Hughes there, we all took the train at Trenton to go to Brockville and cross over into New York State. When we got to Belleville we got off. I was drunk and sleepy. They, Penn and Hughes, intended to go to Brockville, so I

There was a last of track ending at the town of Napanee, I drank some whiskey and ate some cake. I proceeded to pillage the house, gained admittance by a window. I also opened the front door of the house. There was a side door that entered in a passage way. I also opened that. I opened a drawer in a bureau or something like that in a bed room upstairs and got some one dollar bill and some other money. I had other money with me at the time and I took it together. There was a satchel or grip containing silver. I took some of the larger coins out of it. I left the small money in satchel, dimes, nickels and coppers. I found a box like a cash box I lifted it and found some money in it. I took it and I left this room to come and get something to pry the box open. I had a lamp with me. I lit it down stairs and took it up stairs. When I reached the head of the stairs I heard some voices in the house like a discussion. I heard a woman say something to Charlie. Previous to this I had heard the sound of a vehicle driving on the street. When I reached the landing where I had heard the voices I thought that the people in the house had been aroused and I was trying to prevent my escape from the house. I said keep back or I will shoot you or something to that effect. At the same time I fired a shot. I could see no one but I fired in the direction from which the voices came. I heard a man say I fired at me in return. I then fired another shot and escaped from the house. When I went into another fastening on front door I saw a hat rack. I am pretty positive I had a mirror in it. I took off my hat and I saw a white feather in it. I saw no sweat band. I took my hat to mask my face before going up stairs. I picked a kind of tam o' shanter off the rack and put it on before going up stairs. I done this in order to disguise myself. I left my own old hat in the house when I went out. I forgot I had changed it. When I got out I reached the G. T. track and had the revolver. I then went over to the barn where I had left Penn and Hughes asleep and awakened them. I told them I had seen up in prowling in the town, and that I had a shooting match. We then intended to go east on the passenger but Penn changed his mind and left on foot. Hughes and I remained until a passenger pulled in and got on top of the passenger train. There we met two men riding between the baggage cars and it then occurred to me I had left my own hat behind. I reached down and tried to get hold of one of the other fellow's hat. I did not get it. We rode to Brockville. We remained around the depot while the train was changing engines. When the train pulled out the other two men jumped aboard again. Hughes and I jumped on the platform of the last coach. I purchased a hat in Brockville. I left my tam o' shanter at the hotel. Hughes and I took considerable time at the hotel across the street from the depot west. When the west bound passenger reached Brockville there were two men on the baggage car that I knew. Accompanied by two men and Hughes proceeded up town where we drank in a saloon. One of the men I bought a newspaper from a boy who came into the saloon. I passed it to one of the three and we all left. We agreed to meet east of the depot. When I reached the place of meeting they had a paper and I saw that the man I had seen at the depot was killed. I then all escaped on train to Montreal. I had breakfast with a priest at St. Henri. We then crossed over the Victoria bridge to St. Lambert and Longueuil. Remained there until some time in the forenoon and then proceeded to St. Hyacinthe. Remained there a couple of days, then went to Sherbrooke and then to Lennoxville Jct. We crossed into Vermont and wound up in White River Jct., remained one day in Lebanon, N.H. and then crossed the next day came back to White River Jct. and intended to take a train to Windsor, Vt. When we boarded this train the crew tried to put us off but we swung under and when I got to Windsor, Hughes was not there. I waited for him and never seen him again until I met him in Kingston penitentiary. The revolver I had and used was a 38 calibre. I used a handkerchief when I was in McLeod's house to cover my face. When I went back to the barn where Penn and Hughes were wrapped the gun or revolver in the handkerchief I used at McLeod's and hid it. The reason I shot was to cover my retreat from the house and not be captured. The reason I opened the door before making any work in the house was to make my escape as dry as I could and eat some cake and some cold meat. I got them out of a cupboard or sideboard. That part of my statement made to Warden Metcalfe at the penitentiary on the 3rd Feb. 1897, in which I state Hughes was present with me at McLeod's house is not correct. Hughes was not and knew nothing about the shooting until I told him. The statements are absolutely true and correct and made by me of my own free will and accord. Signed, J. F. Troy, Wit. W. J. McLeod.

Continuing Detective Rogers said: In the afternoon I went back to the prison and took the brown fedora hat with me, which I had received from Mr. Warner, crown attorney. I marked the hat two years before this confession was made, by putting a slit in it. This is the hat (produced.) I took the hat and set it down on the warden's desk. Troy came in and picked up the hat and said it was the one he had on in McLeod's house on the night of the murder. He said there were several holes in the hat which were not in it when he had it. Troy described the revolver as a pin fire one which he had purchased in Sarnia, and the dealer would remember the fact of selling the revolver from the fact that a sailor had come in while he was purchasing and wanted to sell a clasp knife, but the dealer wouldn't buy it, and Troy did. Troy said he was sure there was a mirror in the hat rack at McLeod's as he had looked at his mug in passing. Had never heard of the cash box until the prisoner spoke of it. Troy said the tam was a felt tam.

To Mr. Perry—I was not anxious that the prisoner should make a confession. I was told that Troy had been in solitary confinement. He seemed to be in his

W. J. McLeod testified that he was the secretary of the warden of the penitentiary and was present when Troy made his confession, and heard Rogers tell Troy that anything he might say might be used against him.

Mrs. McLeod, the widow of the murdered man, testified that she was in the house on the night of the murder. It was on the 12th of September, 1893. She didn't hear Mr. McLeod getting up, but he came back to her in a very excited state. She was on the second floor in a bed room. There is a stairs leading to the hall which leads to the bedroom. Mr. McLeod told her to keep quiet. She got up out of bed, went to the bay window in the room, attempted to raise it and it fell from her hands making a noise. She then heard a man say, "if you take another step I will shoot you." She heard a shot and her husband fell dead at her feet. Before her husband fell she heard a noise. The pitcher was found upon the floor, having fallen down from the table in the hall. I heard two shots fired. She saw the man from the bay window go out of the front door. Where she was standing she thought he went east.

She missed a felt tam o'shanter a few days after the occurrence. The fedora hat was produced and identified as the one left behind by the murderer. Mrs. McLeod had a cash box in the house containing some nick nacks belonging to her father. Did not know it had been disturbed that night until she learned it from Rogers. There was some money taken from a satchel. Had a hat rack with a mirror in it. Mrs. McLeod gave further testimony as to the things in the house.

Dr. Leonard testified that he assisted at the post mortem on Angus McLeod and found his death had been caused by a bullet. Had compared the bullet shown him by the detective and it was identical with the one taken from the body of McLeod.

Mr. Glynn, of Sarnia, swore that he recognized Troy and sold him a pin fire, 38 calibre revolver in 1893. Bullet in evidence was similar to the box of cartridges he sold Troy. He also sold Troy a razor and strop and Troy tendered him a $10 bill, his purchase having amounted to that. Mr. Glynn also told of the sailor coming in and wanting to dispose of a clasp knife.

Mr. Riddell said the crown had several other witnesses, among them Chief Rankin, of Cobourg, but would not call them unless his lordship thought it was necessary. This closed the case for the crown.

TROY'S CONFESSION.

John F. Troy then entered the witness box, and after being sworn gave evidence of a most remarkable nature. He said that in the main the statement made to Rogers and read by the crown prosecutor was false. In his confession made verbally to Warden Metcalfe he implicated Hughes and Penn. On the strength of that statement detective Rogers came down to see him. Hughes wouldn't admit that he had anything to do with the crime, so when he was brought in he said "yacab," a slang expression equivalent to all right. Hughes was brought in from the corridor. I told him "Paddy, I've lied about you, but it's all right." I did not intend to implicate anyone but myself then but had since got as much blame, blame that he didn't deserve, that he was going to tell the true account of what happened and shield no one. When Rogers came to see me he showed me a photograph of Tom Penn, who he said was in Jackson prison. Penn was not in Jackson prison. Hughes and Penn were both with me in McLeod's house on the night of the murder. I don't deny my guilt, but your Lordship and gentlemen of the Jury, so help me God, Hughes and Penn were both with me. In my confession to Warden Metcalfe I told him that I fired the first shot, Penn the second and I fired the third. There were three shots fired. I was in the hallway when I fired the first shot. I believe, so help me God, that it was the second shot that killed McLeod. There were no shots fired on the street. I fired the last shot after coming downstairs. Penn made his escape from the house first. The man who Mrs. McLeod says she seen must have been Penn. When I made my confession to Detective Rogers he promised to intercede for me and told me that he would see that I would be used better. When I entered McLeod's house I had no intention of committing murder. Had I thought murder was to be committed I would never have entered the house. When I told Rogers I went to the house alone, it was not so, Penn and Hughes were both with me. I am standing here condemning myself and have no object to lie to you. When we entered the house we had no intention of committing anyone an injury, and I didn't know that we had killed anyone. We fired at random to

A woman's greatest mission in this world is to help baby. Teaching baby to eat, and to walk and to talk. A rightly constituted woman finds in these her happiest employment. Too many women miss this happiness because of their own ignorance or neglect. No woman should be ignorant of her own physical make-up. No woman has the right to neglect the health of those delicate organs of her body upon which depends the life and health and happiness of her children. The mother's command to "increase and multiply" was no idle, thoughtless edict. It was the command of Jehovah. The woman who annuls it by neglect of her womanly health commits a crime.

The best medicine for women is Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes a woman capable of performing her duty to herself, her husband, her children and mankind. It acts directly upon the organs distinctly feminine and makes them strong and vigorous. It does away with the discomforts of the period preceding motherhood. It makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism.

In a family of parents and children there is much care, many worries, numerous perplexities. But, if sickness comes, everything else is small beside it. How valuable then is a doctor in the same block, or an experienced neighbor next door. How much more comfortable for all concerned is a standard medical book on the table or the bookshelf. It is less expensive than the doctor, probably more reliable than the experienced neighbor. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice is the best thing of this sort ever published. It contains 1,008 pages of plain talk, and careful illustrations. Many of the pictures are colored and true to nature. Nearly 100 pages are devoted to the diseases of women. There are prescriptions for their cure at home. Send 35 cent stamps, to cover the cost of customs and mailing only, and get this book FREE in strong manilla cover. station Hughes fell and cut his hand. On the way up he hid the revolver in a culvert. Penn went on foot in another direction. Hughes and himself lay up against the fence while a freight pulled in. He saw two men on the back of the car and thought at first they were citizens and thought of going back after the revolver but remembered it would be useless as before hiding it he had emptied the cartridges out of the revolver and tramped them in the dust. He saw that the two men were stealing a ride. He and Hughes got on the train—the baggage car. He went over the top of the cars and tried to steal a hat from one of the two men but was not successful. Hughes also had a brown fedora. The rest of their movements are set out in the confession to detective Rogers. The prisoner detailed circumstances that had taken place when Chief Rankin searched them at Cobourg. He told of having a piece of wire and was showing Hughes and Penn how to catch fish with a noose. Mr. Rankin was called and remembered the circumstances. He said he procured no hat in Brookville. Referring to the evidence given by Mr. Glynn of Sarnia, he was surprised that a man would come all that distance to commit perjury against a man who had gone into the box and admitted his guilt. Perhaps he shouldn't call it perjury, but lapse of memory. He purchased no razor or strap from Glynn. There was a short man with him when he bought the revolver, which he paid $3.50 for. The short man purchased a 22 calibre revolver while there. It was a wonder Glynn could not remember that as well as the other circumstances. He believed detective Rogers had gone to Sarnia and told Glynn the story and Glynn came up here and gave his evidence in accordance with what the detective had told him. It was all rot about him separating from Hughes and Penn at Cobourg. They all reached Napanee together and they were all at McLeod's house together on the night of the murder.

Neither counsel for the prosecution or defence addressed the jury. Mr. Perry stated however, that the prisoner had only allowed him to enter a plea of not guilty in regard to the statement made to Rogers. Troy was very particular upon insisting on a true account of the case being presented to the court. He wanted no misrepresentation, but the facts as they actually occurred.

A ROMANTIC CAREER.

CHRISTIAN-BORN MAHOMETAN WHO COMMANDED FOR TURKEY.

Edhem Pasha's Very Striking Career—Sold a Slave, His Master Freed Him—Then He Received a Parisian Education—His Manhood's Career.

Edhem Pasha, the commander of the Turkish army in the present war with Greece, who has just been recalled and loaded with Sultan's honors, says The New York Journal, has had a most romantic and interesting history. He is not only of Greek origin, but also of Christian parentage. However, strange to say, he is an enthusiastic and fanatic Mohammedan and loyal subject of the present Sultan. His change of religion was caused by a number of strange circumstances which occurred in his youth. He was born on the beautiful island of Chio, in the Aegean Sea. This island was famous in ancient history, and is said to have been the birthplace of Homer. It is seven miles from the coast of Asia Minor and is situated on the Gulf of Smyrna. It is known for its great productivity, mild climate and natural beauty.

For centuries Chio has been under Turkish rule, although the largest part of its population is of Greek descent. In many wars and insurrections for Grecian liberty, the people of this lovely island have always borne the brunt of Turkish cruelty and tyranny. This was especially true in 1822, when the Greeks began a long struggle for freedom. Edhem Pasha was then a small child. The inhabitants of Chio did not participate in the insurrections which occurred in that year, but were following their usual occupations. However, a body of revolutionists came from the island of Samos and landed in Chio. They endeavored to excite the inhabitants to revolution, but met with no success. The Chioites answered that it would be foolish for them to revolt, because the absence of a Greek fleet rendered them almost certain prey to the Sultan's troops on the mainland. The Samians, however, refused to obey, and laid siege to the citadel, then occupied by a Turkish garrison. The Turkish soldiers were driven out, and the fortress reduced to ashes. Soon after an army of seven thousand Turks, with a host of fanatic volunteers, landed on the island. For weeks after the soldiers and the roving hordes of Ottomans slew, pillaged and tortured the inhabitants. In parts of the island the people took refuge in the monasteries, but were pursued and killed by thousands. Even the sick in the hospitals were not spared. Over twenty-three thousand men, women and children were killed, five thousand escaped and forty-seven thousand were sold into slavery, and glutted the slave markets of Egypt, Constantinople and of Tunis.

Edhem Pasha's parents were among the killed. He was sold to a Turkish General named Khosroo Pasha, who took him to Constantinople. His master, however, gave him his liberty, and with a number of boys he was sent to Paris to be educated. He entered the Institute Barbet, where he remained four years. He evinced great industry and scholarship, and all his teachers predicted for him a great and brilliant career. After graduating from this school with great honors he entered a school of mines, and four more years were spent in close application and study. After traveling through France, Germany and Switzerland he returned to Constantinople and was appointed a captain on the general staff of the Turkish army. In 1819 the Sultan made him his Adjutant, and he also became the French instructor of the late Sultan Murad and of the present ruler, Abdul Hamid. Later on he was intrusted with a number of important political missions. In 1856 he became a member of the Council of State and was then appointed Minister of the Interior. In 1860 he became Minister of Foreign Affairs, and subsequently represented his country at Berlin. In 1877, upon the banishment of Midhat Pasha, he became grand Vizier, which position he filled with great ability. In 1879 he was Ambassador to Vienna, and from 1883 to 1885 he was again Minister of the Interior.

Edhem Pasha has always shown great hatred toward foreigners and against Christians. At the peace conference at the end of the Russian-Turkish war in 1877 he was the last of the Turkish Ministers to give his consent to the final settlement of the hostilities. He had always been an enthusiastic Turkish chauvinist. He is a zealous member of the Young Turk keep back pursuit.

His Lordship asked the prisoner what induced him to make a confession in the first place.

The state of my health induced me to make my confession, I was in solitary confinement, I was harassed by doubts and fears, my mind became weak and I was afraid I would lose my reason. I was in darkness, night and day was the same to me. I had no work to employ my mind, my very existence became distasteful to me.

His Lordship asked him if he had any hope of reward in making the confession and if he knew the consequence of it.

What hope of reward had I, your Lordship, he replied, I do not know the consequence. Trifles distract me. My mind is not strong now. Coming out of the isolation prison, to attend this trial, and seeing the sunshine has brought on a desire to live, and that was the reason I consented to my counsel entering a plea of not guilty. I only wished to correct the statements made to Rodgers. I wish to tell the whole truth, so help me God. Hughes didn't do any shooting. He did not have a revolver. Only Penn and I were armed, still I believe it was Hughes' act in extinguishing the lamp that made shooting necessary. I had opened a cupboard and found a gin bottle containing some whiskey there was also some cake in the cupboard. I took a drink of the whiskey. Hughes took a drink also, but it made him retch. I made a gesture and said don't make so much noise, do you think you're in a barn. In stepping back Hughes extinguished the lamp, and had it not been for that there would have been no confusion and we could have seen that shooting was unnecessary. After this we proceeded out in the hallway. We went upstairs. I opened a drawer and found a bill in it. I don't know what denomination it was. I tossed it over to Penn. The satchel we found did not contain any bills. There was some silver in it. I don't know how much. I took the largest coins and left the nickles and coppers. Before going upstairs I exchanged my hat for a felt Tam I found on the hat rack. I also disguised myself by tying my handkerchief around my face. The prisoner told of locating the cash box upstairs, and described many other things in the house which could only be known to one conversant with the interior. He had no money when he reached Napanee and don't know how much he secured at McLeod's. Penn made the first escape. Hughes went out by the side door and Troy by the hall door. In rushing to the said this was one of the most extraordinary cases that had come before his attention since he ascended the Bench in 1849. It was altogether different from the usual cases where a man was arrested on suspicion. He was at a loss to know the prisoner's motive in making this confession but that had been explained by Troy. He preferred death to solitary confinement. The judge referred to the other statements made by the prisoner, but pointed out that the story he had told to day was the only one given under oath. The statements made to Warden Metcalfe and Detective Rogers were not made under oath. The prisoner had been in solitary confinement and His Lordship was not sure as to his sanity. No matter who fired the fatal shot at McLeod, the three men, Hughes, Penn and Troy were all equally guilty of murder.

The jury retired and in a short time returned with a verdict of guilty.

His Lordship said he would reserve sentence and make a special report of the case to the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General.

TROY IS A STUDY.

Troy is an enigma. He is evidently a man of some culture and one of whom one might expect better things. He is a boyish looking fellow, of medium height. His features are regular and he is not at all bad looking. In giving his evidence he spoke in a low, hurried voice and at times it was extremely difficult to follow him. He used good language and told his story in a cool, collected way which carried conviction as to its truthfulness. The eloquent manner in which the prisoner depicted his sufferings while in solitary confinement recalled at once the trials of Dunas' hero, the Count of Monte Cristo.

During the progress of the trial the court room was packed to suffocation, and while the prisoner was telling his story the large audience hung upon his every word, and a profound stillness pervaded the court room. The spectacle was a pitiful one. A young man in the prime of life, possessed of more than ordinary intelligence, and one who, had he directed his energies in the right line might have become an ornament to society, was standing there before a jury of his peers, voluntarily swearing his life away. Not one detail in his self crimination would he allow to escape him. His eagerness to tell the whole story and true version of the facts as they occurred was apparent. Remorse was written in large letters upon his forehead. He had sown to the wind and was reaping the whirlwind. His reply to the judge: "I am friendless, my Lord," was sad indeed. He was not always friendless. The prisoner was well brought up. Two of his sisters, we are informed, have consecrated their lives and are nuns in a convent. Troy emigrated to America from the old country. He drifted into crime and has a notorious record for one so young.

Troy's memory is something remarkable. Without a moments faltering he detailed things which happened four years ago, even recalling trifling details in his companions' apparel. The manner in which he caught up Mr. Glenn, of Sarnia, shows his ready wit.

We believe the McLeod murder case is without a parallel in history. The history of noted criminals shows, however, that they are all egotistical. They glory in notoriety. No doubt the fascination of a trial appealed strongly to Troy in his isolation. Whether the prisoner pays the penalty of the crime on the gallows or not, it is satisfactory to know that the mystery has been cleared up and that suspicion can no longer be directed against the innocent.

Quackery is always discovering remedies which will act upon the germs of disease directly and kill them. But no discovery has ever yet been approved by doctors which will cure consumption that way. Germs can only be killed by making the body strong enough to overcome them, and the early use of such a remedy as Scott's Emulsion is one of the helps. In the daily warfare man keeps up, he wins best, who is provided with the needed strength, such as Scott's Emulsion supplies.

HEALTHY STOMACH!

Happy Man!—Nothing Experimental About Using the Great South American Nerve—What it has done for Thousands it will do for you.

Here are Strong Words from a Reliable Business Man—Read Them.

I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried many remedies, but obtained very little relief. I saw South American Nerve advertised, and concluded to give it a trial, and I must say I consider it the very best medicine I have ever used. I obtained great relief from the first few doses. I have only used two bottles, and am happy to say it has made a new man of me. I strongly recommend it to fellow-sufferers." C. PEARCE, Dry Goods Merchant, Forest, Ont. Sold by A. W. Grange & Bro.

A 23-Inch Man.

Peter Adamson, so far as known, the smallest human being on earth, has just made his debut in Madison Square Garden, according to The New York Journal. This prince of the land of Liliput, though a midget, is far from being a baby. He first saw the light of day 17 years ago, near Riga, in Russia, and since that happy event he has had as good a time as falls to the lot of the average young gentleman of his years and a great deal more experience. He has traveled over a considerable portion of Europe, and before he gets through will have seen every place of any size in this country.

Peter, as the prince is known to his intimates, weighs a little short of seven pounds when in full uniform on the exhibition stand. Minus his regimentals he tips the beam at six and one-half. He stands 23 inches in his patent leathers, of which, by the way, he is very proud. Seated, he is 19 1/4 inches high. Tom Thumb, who gathered more wealth and fame than any other midget that ever lived, was a veritable giant beside this little Russian. General Thumb weighed 99 pounds, and could easily have tucked Peter under his right arm.

Obliterating a Town.

Preparations for the unusual proceeding of obliterating an entire town are now nearly completed by the Massachusetts authorities. The town of West Boylston, which is to be destroyed, is the location of factories employing several hundred men and lies in the centre of a tract of land which is to be used in the construction of the mammoth Nashua River basin, which is to supply the city of Boston and its suburbs with water. Hence it must be removed in order that the work may proceed.

He Fined Himself.

There was an interesting spectacle at Bowling Green, O., recently. Mayor Campbell has for some years, ever since he stopped drinking, been a strong temperance man, but of late he has fallen into his old habits. The city marshal, who knew of his backsliding, warned him to keep off the streets while intoxicated, or he would be arrested by the police, whom he had incurred a number of times for not enforcing the liquor laws. Campbell did not heed this advice, and was arrested and locked in the city jail with a prisoner whom he had the day before soundly lectured for being drunk. After staying in jail over night he was taken to the City Hall in the morning, and as Mayor he imposed upon himself a fine of $5 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. He paid the fine and then formally released himself.—Detroit Free Press.

A Marvellous Cure by Paine's Celery Compound.

Three Bottles Suffice To Make Mr. Finter Well and Strong.

The hopeless, despairing, and all who imagine they are lost, because the doctors have failed, should rejoice to know that Paine's Celery Compound fully meets the worst cases, and never fails to restore lost health.

It is no vain or idle boast when the declaration is made that Paine's Celery Compound cures when all other means fail. To-day a grand army of men and women in our own Canada can vouch for the truth of the statement made.

As a proof that Paine's Celery Compound cures in the darkest times of disease and misery we give the testimony of Mr. F. Finter, of Ottawa, Ont., who was saved at almost the eleventh hour. He says:

"I consider it a duty to acknowledge the great good that I derived from your valuable remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. For four years I endured terrible agony and misery owing to pains in my head and chest. Life was a burden to me, and no living mortal could describe my sufferings. I was treated by doctors, and used many patent medicines, but nothing gave me relief until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I thank God for the day it was brought to my notice in the Ottawa papers. I have taken three bottles of the medicine, and to-day I can truly say that I feel like a new man. I feel certain that if the suffering people of Canada would only try Paine's Celery Compound they would be cured. I will recommend the remedy whenever I have the opportunity, as it is the best ever given to sufferers."

HUGHES ARRAIGNED.

HE PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF MURDERING McLEOD.

A True Bill Against Penn—Hughes said He Was Ready for His Trial.

At the conclusion of the Troy murder trial his lordship directed that the grand jury, which had been discharged on Wednesday morning, be recalled and that they assemble at the court house on Thursday morning, at 10 a. m. On the grand jury assembling on Thursday morning his Lordship informed them that another extraordinary thing had happened since they were discharged. He should have told them in dismissing them that they might be called back. During the evening of the day on which the grand jury were discharged the convict Troy had entered the witness box and made a statement under oath saying that one Penn and Hughes were in McLeod's house with him on the night of the murder and that the statement Troy gave Rogers in which he exculpated Hughes was not true. If Hughes and Penn were with Troy in McLeod's house that night with Troy burglarizing they were equally guilty even if they did not fire the shot. They were all responsible in law for what the other did. The crown was not able to lay hands on Penn but they had Hughes and they would be asked to consider two charges against him, one for murder and the other for burglary. They would be asked to find a true bill against Hughes. It would be necessary to call Mrs. McLeod as the convict, Troy, did not know for a fact McLeod was killed. Troy would be asked to give evidence, and if he told the same story it would certainly implicate Hughes. His Lordship said he would not think of pressing on a trial but would like to have a true bill as it would have some bearing on Troy's case. He hadn't passed the sentence on Troy yet in consequence. Not that it will affect Troy's sentence, but it may affect the time when the sentence will go into effect. The grand jury after being out over an hour brought in a true bill for murder and burglary against John Hughes, and a true bill for murder and burglary against Frank Hayes, alias Penn. The judge ordered that a bench warrant be issued for the arrest of Penn.

John Hughes was then brought into the dock. He is a young man, coarse featured, and heavy of stature. He is about twenty-three years of age. On being arraigned Hughes pleaded not guilty to both indictments. He said he was ready for trial. Mr. U. M. Wilson consented to act as counsel for the prisoner. He desired to have a conference with the prisoner before going on with the case. This was granted. Mr. Wilson saying he would bring the trial on at this assize, if possible.

Hughes is of a lower type than Troy. The convict Troy showed marked intelligence and was evidently the brains of the trio.

Hughes' counsel will ask to have the case laid over to the next assizes, as he will endeavor to prove an alibi. It is doubtful if his Lordship will consent to have the case laid over.

THE SECRET DIED WITH HIM.

While the people of Ontario are falling over one another in their eagerness to invest their surplus wealth in the gold mines of British Columbia we have, literally at our very doors, a district in which the precious yellow metal exists to as great, if not greater, an extent as it does in the distant fields of British Columbia. Unlike British Columbia the discoveries in Kaladar and Hastings county have not been heralded with any great blowing of trumpets, but development work is progressing quietly and this district is on the verge of a gold mining boom the far reaching results of which is hard to foresee.

Gold mining in Kaladar was greatly retarded by the imperfect and unreliable nature of the geological survey. According to the Government survey the rocks of Kaladar are of Laurentian formation. That the rocks of this township are of a Huronian formation is now so well established that it is unnecessary to bring forward evidence to substantiate it. As gold does not exist in Laurentian formation the geological surveyor did Kaladar and our back country a grave injustice.

Back in 1870, W. H. Palmer, a famous prospector, devoted considerable time in exploring the Kaladar and Anglesa mining regions. Mr. Palmer was a highly educated eccentric Englishman and a great

The Spring Assizes opened before His Lordship, Mr. Justice Robertson at the court house here on Monday. The docket was an unusually heavy one, and on account of the interesting criminal cases, full reports of which appear in another column, a large crowd was in attendance and great interest evinced in the proceedings. His Lordship in his address to the Grand Jury said this was his first visit to this beautifully situated town. He referred to the unique murder trial that would come before them, and said it was the most remarkable case he had ever heard of. He referred to the reduction in the number of Grand Jurors and told of other important changes which had taken place in the law. He told them it was their duty to visit the public buildings and see they were in good repair and in a sanitary condition. He laid particular stress on the need of good sanitation in gaols and court rooms. He referred to the coming Diamond Jubilee and paid a glowing tribute to our gracious Majesty Queen Victoria. GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

To His Lordship, Mr. Justice Robertson:

We the Grand Jurors of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, at this Court of Assize, for the County of Lennox and Addington, beg to report as follows:

First—We thank your Lordship for the pains taken in your address to explain the changes which have been made in the laws relating to the Grand and Petit Juries, and while we realize that the trend of public opinion and legislation is towards complete recognition of the principle that majorities must rule, we note with satisfaction that progress in this direction is being made cautiously. The educative value of such official reference to the laws of the land which you have pleased to make can scarcely be overestimated.

Second—We have visited the county jail and found everything in good order, evidencing the painstaking care with which the governor discharges the duties of his position. We think some improvements tending to a better sanitary condition of the water closets in the jail yard are very desirable, and trust it may only be necessary to draw the attention of the County Council to the matter in order to have the defect remedied. We found three prisoners confined in the jail in addition to those whose cases come up for hearing at this assize: one prisoner serving a sentence for assault, one a vagrant, and one an idiot. We think it a matter of regret that the latter is not removed to some more suitable place for the confinement of such unfortunate.

Third—We note with regret the large number of crimes committed throughout the country by tramps, and we regret that this class of criminals appear to be on the increase, and all attempts to stamp out the nuisance which has become so prevalent and dangerous appear to have no effect. We would recommend that some more stringent measure be provided for this class of criminals. We believe that if the lash be freely applied to all tramps found carrying firearms or dangerous weapons, evidencing their readiness to commit crime, that the evil that has thus become so many communities would be materially lessened.

Fourth—Your Lordship's interesting reminiscences of sixty years ago, when in your hearing the proclamation of the ascension of Her Royal Highness, Princess Victoria to the throne of her ancestors was publicly read, called for devout thankfulness that in the British Empire during the larger part of the nineteenth century, has exhibited to the world the beneficence of sovereign power, the growth of national greatness, and the district purchasing horses for the British market.

A Fake Story.

Saturday evening a man answering to the name of Johnston drove into town and inquired for the police. He was directed to them and told a disconnected story about a lady named Higebloom having been murdered that afternoon by a couple of tramps. The fellow's story was so limp and lame that it was discredited from the first. He said the murder occurred on the York Road, about three miles from Napanee. He had not been on the scene of the tragedy but had met a man who informed him of the murder and then told him to drive to Napanee and notify the police. Inquiries elicited that the story was a fake pure and simple. The man is supposed to be a little deranged. He stole a horse and rig near Kingston on Friday and on the way to Napanee traded horses with some one on the road. He left his horse at the Campbell House when he skipped out of town on Saturday night.

Good Roads.

We suppose every municipality in the province wants good roads. We suppose also that every township in this county would like to have good roads, but if this is so there was very little evidence of it on Tuesday evening when Mr. Campbell delivered an address in the town hall here on how to make good roads. There were but very few people present but those present listened to a very plain, practical address. To have a road the first essential is drainage, and the better your drainage the better your road. Build your road with a crown of one inch raise in every foot, and don't use anything but good material. It is of no use throwing mud or sand into the middle of your road. When the rains come it will surely rut, and rot your road bed. To make really good roads modern machinery is needed. A stone crusher and six-ton roller being essential. With them at work under careful superintendence roads may be had in a few years that will last a lifetime. But don't waste any time or material on a road until you have secured thorough drainage. Get the water off the roads and keep it off and half your work is done. Mr. Campbell will be in this town again sometime soon when every pathmaster within reasonable distance should endeavor to get a few pointers about making roads.

A Bad Beginning Makes a Good Ending.

The first game of the Quinte Union series for the Bass Cup took place at Deseronto on Friday afternoon and resulted in a victory for the Deseronto team by 3 goals to 0. The ground was in a bad shape the recent rains having inundated it and the players had not only to dodge their opponents but pools of water as well. In the first rush a bad accident occurred. A Deseronto player came in contact with Mr. Fred Scott's leg, fracturing the bone below the knee and badly injuring the knee. It was purely accidental, but it will lay Fred up for a long time and deprive the team of one of its most reliable backs. The game was not a particularly brilliant one, both teams being plainly in need of practice. For Deseronto Pulkington and Nicholson put up a great game and practically won the match for the home team. The Deseronto boys are much heavier than the Napanee team and our footballists will have to practice hard and get back to their old time combination play if they desire to be up among the cup probabilities. The following composed the Napanee team: Grieve, Chown, Rockwell, Grange, Preston, Bradshaw, G. Exley, Wagar, Smith, W. Exley and Lamey. F. Anderson replaced Fred Scott in the first half and was replaced by W. Exley in the second, as his knee was injured by a kick. Mr. Wm. Smeaton, of Picton, refereed the game and his decisions, or rather lack of decisions, was very unsatisfactory to the Napanee team.

NOTES.

The Secretary of the Napanee club is in receipt of a letter from J. P. Pulkington, of Deseronto, expressing the deep regret of the Deseronto team at the accident which occurred to Mr. Fred Scott. Pulkington concludes: "We regret very much that such a thing did occur and I myself would much rather Deseronto had lost by all odds than that such a thing should occur to one of the boys."

Napanee and Picton will play at Picton on the 14th inst. Kingston defeated Sydenham on Saturday by 3 goals to 0.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is known to be an honest medicine, and it actually cures when all others fail. Take it now.

portion of his declining years were spent in that region, which was to him an open book. About fifteen years ago he discovered the Guina mine and in a letter to a gentleman in town predicted that it would eventually become one of the greatest in the county. The old gentleman made several discoveries which he failed to impart to his associates, owing to differences that existed between them. Among the rest Palmer discovered a large vein of free milling ore, 30 feet wide, somewhere near the Guina mine, the secret of which he carried with him to the grave. We predict that this vein will be re-discovered by some of the energetic prospectors now perambulating that part of the country.

Mr. F. Burrows, Public School Inspector, has just returned from a visit to his mine in Kaladar and has brought back several fine specimens of mispickite ore taken from his claim. Development work has commenced on his property and from all accounts our genial Inspector has a rich claim, as the ore assays very high. The formation is the same as that around Delora, and as the new process of treating mispickite ore has proved highly successful Mr. Burrows is the happy possessor of a bonanza. His claim covers 256 acres, Mr. Burrows presented us with several fine specimens of ore from his mine.

Prospectors are numerous in Kaladar these days but they are not advertising their movements by any means. A great many instead of putting up at the hotels bunk in with farmers and thus escape the fool questions of the curious. A number of options have been purchased, and in most cases the owners or "squatters" as the case may be, of the land have been liberally dealt with.

J. Radd Perry and Capt. Holmes, of Napanee, have been in Kaladar prospecting. They have purchased a number of options and believe there is a bright future ahead for the back townships.

Messrs. E. H. Baines, Thos. E. Anderson, J. M. Bogart, and Ed. Francisco took a trip back into Kaladar on Saturday. They are much enamoured with the place.

Troy is Talkative.

Troy is quite a chatty fellow and is not at all adverse to telling stories of his past life, which are quite interesting. Troy came to this country about fourteen years ago from Dublin, Ireland. He is thirty-two years of age and is utterly demoralized. He is one of those plausible villains who think nothing of human life. Penn, it appears, was the coward of the party. When Penn learned that McLeod was dead Troy says that "he took to his heels and is going yet," so it will be difficult to locate him. Penn, according to Troy, got the bulk of the money, as Hughes and he only got a little silver. Penn, in his hurry to escape from McLeod's house, almost threw Troy down stairs, and the latter was very angry with him, and that is one of the reasons why Penn separated from them. Troy was placed in solitary confinement in the Kingston penitentiary for striking a fellow convict over the head with a hammer. Columns might be written about this fellow and his biography would be a valuable addition to the history of crime. Troy tells a story of how he revenged himself on a man who did him an injury. He procured a pair of the man's boots, started out from his residence, taking care to make his tracks plain, went to a neighbors house and burglarized it. He then returned to the man's house and left the boots there. The man was convicted by the boot marks and sent to the penitentiary for three years.

Bessie, the six-year old adopted daughter of Mrs. Jane Jennings, who resides on the Moscow road about three miles from Yarker, met death in a peculiar manner on Wednesday of last week. The little girl tied her apron strings around her neck, and climbing on a box, attached the apron to the limb of a tree. It is presumed that she fell asleep, rolled off the box, and was strangled to death.

strengthening of legal authority, developing, aside by side with ever increasing natural regard and esteem. We applaud your Lordship's expression of deep and abiding loyalty to the person, throne and dignity of our gracious sovereign the Queen. We join in the prayer that the Supreme Ruler may spare her yet many years to wield the sceptre of public dominion, whilst ennobling domestic virtues by example and precept. We congratulate your Lordship upon your physical and mental strength, and trust that for many years you may continue to sit in a Judicial capacity on the Ontario High Court Bench. Signed on behalf of the Grand Jury.

W. F. HAY, Foreman.
Dated, Grand Jury Room, Napanee, 11th May, 1897.

His Lordship in reply thanked the Grand Jury for their kind references to himself, and said that the county council should take steps towards putting the gaol in a sanitary condition. He made an eloquent reference to, and condemned in strong language the inhuman practice of committing poor people to gaol. It was a disgrace to our 19th century civilization and his Lordship condemned it in no unmistakeable terms.

The criminal cases will be found in another column. The case against Miller and McCarney was traversed to the next assizes. The following is a list of the civil cases and the judgments:

McCLUSKEY vs. STEWART—This was an action for assault growing out of the trouble over the ownership of the trotting horse. St. John. Last year Mr. McCluskey, who resides in New Brunswick, entrusted his horse, St. John, to the keeping of one J. R. Hagar, of Platteville, N.Y. Hagar took the horse to Canada and entered it in the Bay of Quinte circuit races. When McCluskey went to Platteville after his horse he found out that Hagar had taken it across the border into Canada. He immediately set out to secure it. Arriving at Kingston he learned the horse was at Stewart's hotel, in the town of Deseronto. He went to Deseronto, found his horse in Stewart's stable, and took it out and started for Kingston. When about two miles out of Deseronto Messrs. Stewart, Hagar, and Chief of Police Gunyoo overtook him and forcibly took possession of the horse. McCluskey then went to Kingston and had a writ of replevy issued, took it to A. S. Vallean, the then Bailiff, and together they went to Stewart's stable to secure the horse. While there Stewart told McCluskey to leave the yard, and he not going quick enough to suit Stewart, the defendant caught him by the arm and forcibly ejected him, and admitted striking him in the mouth in doing so. McCluskey swore that Stewart struck him in the back, causing injury to his kidneys which had since incapacitated him from work. Dr. Bell, a veterinary surgeon, Dr. Herald and Dr. McCammon, reputable medical practitioners of Kingston, testified to the condition of McCluskey's back, which was bruised, and the kidneys injured. The doctors said the injuries sustained by McCluskey were more serious than a broken arm or leg, as they incapacitated him from work for at least twelve months. The defence brought forward the following witnesses: Geo. Stewart, Murney Luffman, Jas. Howard, Jno. Harvey, H. Howard, Edward Lavigne, Chas. Clarke, Irvine Hudson, J. A. Hagar, and Dr. Leslie, who testified that they saw the assault, but that Stewart did not strike McCluskey in the back. Geo. Stewart is a hotel-keeper and proprietor of the Deseronto House. The learned judge said that Stewart had no right to order McCluskey off the premises, as he had a perfect right to be there. The judge charged strongly against Stewart. The jury retired and at 11 o'clock p.m. brought in a verdict of $275 for McCluskey. J. L. Whiting for plaintiff, E. Gas Porter for defendant.

PARKS VS. BAKER—An action for malicious prosecution. This action grew out of a charge laid against Parks, who resides at Bath, for incest. Parks was tried for the offense and acquitted. Parks accused a number of the most influential citizens of Bath of laying the information that led to the investigation before the magistrate and brought this action. The whole case hinged on whether the then acting crown attorney, Mr. G. F. Rutten, was obliged to divulge the names of the parties who laid the information against Parks. The judge held he had not, and dismissed the case. English and Perry for plaintiff, G. F. Rutten for deft.

ROMBOUGH VS. KELLAR was settled out of court. G. F. Rutten for plaintiff, D. H. Preston for deft.

CASSIDY VS. MONROW—An action for illegal distress. G. F. Rutten and W. R. Riddell for plaintiff and D. H. Preston and Mr. Clute, Q. C. for deft.

This case occupied the attention of the court for over 15 hours. Shortly after 10 o'clock the learned counsels concluded their addresses to the jury and his Lordship will charge them at 10 o'clock this morning. A great many witnesses were examined in this case and much interest was evinced in it.

KIDNEY WAR.

How Insidiously in Wages, but how Quick the Surrender, and how the Flag of Truce is Hurriedly Hoisted when that Great General, South American Kidney Cure, Turns his Guns on the Disease.

This is what James Sullivan, of Chatham, Ont., writes: "For years I was a great sufferer from Kidney trouble. The disease became so acute that I was confined to the house, and was greatly afflicted with insomnia. I was persuaded after using many other remedies without a relief almost from the first dose. I have persisted in its use, and after using six bottles I am well and strong again. I can work four or five hours out of twenty-four and feel very little, if any fatigue. It is the best medicine I have ever used." Sold by A. W. Grang & Bro.
